WASHINGTON HEALTH LAW SUMMIT

Join your colleagues at The Ritz-Carlton, Washington, DC for the 12th annual Washington Health Law Summit, December 8–9, 2014.

Whether you are in-house counsel, in private practice, a government attorney, just interested in health policy, the 2014 Washington Health Law Summit is the one national program you cannot afford to miss. As the future of American healthcare takes shape, it is essential that attorneys from all segments of the healthcare bar and other professionals serving healthcare organizations are up to date on the latest legislative and policy developments and the implementation of significant healthcare initiatives emanating from HHS, CMS, IRS, DOJ, OIG and other key government policymakers.

This outstanding program provides a unique opportunity for federal and state government lawyers, in-house counsel and private practitioners to learn from each other in an intimate conference setting. Year after year, attendees say the Summit is “a thought provoking and interesting two days” and “a really good way to stay up-to-date.” They also enjoy “the varied speakers from the public and private sector.” One of last year’s attendees said the “topics about health policy were timely and informative. I like the blend of policy with the nuts and bolts of healthcare law.” Another stated, “I attend every year for the relevant, current information—it allows me to get a general sense of where state and federal legislation is headed.”

The Monday evening welcome and diversity reception is an excellent opportunity for networking over cocktails and hors d’oeuvres (included in your registration fee).

11:30 am– 12:30 pm	Concurrent Sessions, Continued 2) Privatization of Medicaid—the Solution to Medicaid Expansion under ACA? After the Supreme Court ruled in 2012 Medicaid expansion was optional for states under the Affordable Care Act (ACA), Governors had the opportunity to decide whether and how to expand their Medicaid programs. While half of the states chose to expand their programs in accordance with the ACA's parameters, several states with large Medicaid populations sought more flexibility in designing their expansion programs by using managed care organizations, (MCOs) requiring the utilization of health savings accounts or requiring other enrollee obligations. As a solution to bulging Medicaid budgets, state legislatures have looked for budget certainty and financial gains from MCOs. The panelists will explore the details of these privatization programs and whether if they provide solutions that can be utilized by other states. Dianne Heffron, Principal, Government Human Services Consulting, Mercer, Washington, DC Pat Brady, Managing Principal, Sellers Dorsey, Commonwealth of PA Moderator: Michelle Apodaca, Waller, Lansden, Dortch & Davis, Austin, TX 3) What You and Your Clients Should Know about Responding to Ebola and other Health Threats Public health emergencies can result from flu outbreaks, exotic viruses such as Ebola or SARS or from contaminated food or water following a natural disaster. 7:30–8:30 am	ABA Health Law Section Interest Group Breakfasts Several Interest Groups will be hosting a breakfast table. Choose a group that interests you and find out how it can be of value to you in your practice.
8:30–9:45 am	Health Insurance Marketplace—Forever Changed? The most significant health insurance market reforms took effect at the beginning of the year following a difficult and error-plagued launch of the health insurance exchanges. Still, health insurers, healthcare providers and consumers have been trying to digest the Affordable Care Act’s challenges and opportunities for almost five years, now. We see reports that the number of uninsured Americans is declining. And we hear claims that there are more options to get covered in the new health insurance marketplace while seemingly contradictory views contend that our choice of providers in the new health insurance products is narrowing. Whether required by the Affordable Care Act or inspired by the quest for competitive superiority or mere economic survival, health insurance products being developed in the market are undergoing a transformation which impacts not only health insurers, but also the healthcare delivery network, producers, consumers and employers. Our panel of experts will take a look at what really happened to the health insurance marketplace as a result of the Affordable Care Act’s 2014 reforms and trends you and your clients can expect to see in the future. Julie Barnes, Director of Health Care Policy, Cambia Health Solutions, Washington, DC Kaye Pestaina, Principal, Mercer, Washington, DC Jack A. TUESDAY, DECEMBER 9, 2014 CONTINUED

10:00–11:00 am	Law at the Crossroads—Counseling in the Context of Conflicting Laws This panel will explore the ethical and professional responsibility implications of counseling clients on activities that may be lawful in some contexts and unlawful in others, such as dispensing of marijuana, marketing activities on behalf of health care providers and regulation of compounding pharmacies. The discussion will also include appropriate limitations on advice, the distinction between counseling potentially illegal conduct and advising a client of consequences of its actions, and the risks associated with providing advice that may result in the prosecution of the client (and the lawyer). The learning objectives for this session are to acquaint lawyers with the professional obligations they undertake in counseling clients on issues where federal and state laws may conflict and to help lawyers assess the risks to clients and themselves in providing legal advice in these situations. Susan Winkler, Assistant United States Attorney, Boston, MA Lisa D. Taylor, Inglesino, Wyciskala & Taylor LLC, Parsippany, NJ Moderator: Andrew J. Demetriou, Berkeley Research Group LLC, Credo LLP, Los Angeles, CA

The speakers also will discuss trends in recent precedents and their impact on Medicare reimbursement for hospitals and other health care providers Arthur E. 11:00 am–12:00 pm	Concurrent Sessions, Continued 2) There is Nothing More Certain than Healthcare Coverage or Taxes This panel will focus on the real world complexities, remaining uncertainties and various tax consequences stemming from the ACA's "individual mandate," the employer "pay or play" requirements and various tax reporting requirements. Specifically, we will tackle the consequences and uncertainties from the perspective of individuals (evaluating the full costs of individual policies associated with the mandate as well as the provisions within the Tax Code that benefit individuals), insurers/employers (outlining the evolving employer requirements and associated reporting), and the government. James R. Napoli, Seyfarth Shaw LLP, Washington, DC Internal Revenue Service Representative (Invited) Moderator: Stefan P. Smith, Locke Lord LLP, Dallas, TX
12:00–1:00 pm	LUNCH AND LEARN—Legal Considerations When Transitioning from the Government to Private Practice This session will touch on the different ethical standards for attorneys transitioning from the government to private practice while drawing on the experiences of former government attorneys that have made the transition. Federal laws and regulations impose a number of restrictions on former government lawyers related to representation on certain matters, contact with governmental agencies, and compensation. The Model Rules of Professional Conduct also articulate express standards to govern the behavior of former government lawyers entering private practice. Harriet Miers, Locke Lord LLP, Dallas, TX Mark D.
